RUNAWAY.

HENDRICK or HENRY FREY, a Swiss or German Redemptioner, absconded from my service on the morning of the 4th inst. (Thursday) He is about 23, 24 or 25 years old; has a good countenance; is about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, and of common size otherwise—stooping or inclining forward a little when he walks.—He had on a fur hat nearly new, he took with him a mixed coloured great coat, not new, a dark mixed coloured coatee and pantaloons, two or three shirts, a pair of boots and shoes, and some other things, which, except those he had on, he probably carried in his knapsack—he had also a silver watch when he went off. He had emigrated from Basle in Switzerland, and arrived in Philadelphia last summer in the ship " Johannah and Elizabeth." He was regularly indented to me there for three years from August last, and was employed as a gardener. It is ascertained that he took his seat in the stage in Georgetown, by the assumed name of John Reibert, for Fredericktown, and started at 5 o'clock in the morning, arrived at Frederick about sundown that day, and immediately proceeded on foot about 6 miles to Miller's tavern, where he lodged—here he called for some coffee in the evening and in the morning, having provision of his own in his knapsack—here he also offered his watch for sale—and here he enquired for Hagerstown and Pitt. He probably had but about 5 or 6 dollars in money when he left Miller's tavern on foot on Friday morning the 5th inst.—The probability is that he is gone to Pittsburgh; although necessity may prevent him from travelling so fast as he otherwise would.

The above reward will be given for him if returned to me, and all expences paid.

JOHN P. VAN NESS.

City of Washington, Dec. 13, 1817.

The fellow speaks or understands very little if any, English, using almost wholly the German language.

He has probably with him a formal written recommendation or voucher of his character from Basle containing his true name of Frey.

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

By John I. Scull. No46.

Tuesday, January 6, 1818,

Milledgeville, Friday morning, December 12, 1817,

LATE AND IMPORTANT INDIAN NEWS.

The editor of the Reflector, received last night the following important letter from his attentive and obliging correspondent, (an officer of the staff) dated,

"Fort Hawkins, Dec. 10.

"The firing which was supposed to be an attack upon colonel Arbuckle's camp, was a cannonading from Fort Scott, in return of some fires which the Indians made upon the boats which were building on the river. Nothing material resulted. The account which I gave you in my last relative to the foraging party being cut off is probably incorrect, as it has not been confirmed.

"I expect you have had an express from general Gaines in Milledgeville to-day, via Hartford. Its contents have transpired here, that is, gen Gaines ascertained that maj. Muhlenburg was ascending Apalachia, and despatched two boats to his assistance, and to collect provisions. One boat, commanded by lieut. Scott, with fifty men, was attacked twelve miles below fort Scott, and the whole massacred, except six who saved themselves by swimming, four of whom were wounded. From the other boat, and another which had been up the river, nothing had been heard. An express from gen. Jackson to gen. Gaines, who left here on Friday, returned to-night. He took the route by fort Gaines, but was unable to proceed even that far. He penetrated within ten miles of the fort, when he observed fresh Indian signs, and a few miles further came to where two white men had been killed, one of whom was Mr. John Chambres, of fort Gaines. The express had heard from them frequently by persons whom he met, and was trying to overtake them, and at the time of the murder could not have been more than five miles behind

"They were killed last Monday morning within a few miles of the place where they had encamped the night before.—The appearance indicated about twenty Indians, and the trail entered the road in the direction of Fort Gaines; at which place there is merely a sergeant's guard of twelve men, and a few of the neighboring inhabitants, who have taken refuge there. So safe, however have the inhabitants considered themselves there, that some it is said, are so credulous as to make their yard-railing their only breast-work, and the alarm has come so sudden upon them, that retreat is impossible, or at least dangerous. Fort Gaines is said to be of considerable strength; Fort Scott is a mere camp, having very partial defences. Two expresses despatched from fort Gaines to fort Scott, have not been heard of; nor has the one sent from this place, since he left fort Mitchell. Jackson's express says that he was informed by a friendly chief, that gen. Gaines had sent advices to fort Mitchell, requesting that as few passages should be made through the nation as possible. This is probably correct and necessary, as the hostile influence seems to be extensive and scattered, and the middle town on the rout to fort Gaines, which is avowedly hostile, lies only 37 miles below the Alabama road. Governor Mitchell is at fort Mitchell, and will use his influence and authority with the nation in courting their neutrality, or directing their vengeance.

"Provisions are plenty, and transportation less difficult than was expected. It is uncertain when we shall march—perhaps in two or three days.

Extract of a letter, dated Amelia Island, 8th December 1817.

"The Morgiana has returned with two Guineamen one safe in port with 250 slaves—the other, with 119 slaves, was taken possession of by the United States' brig Saranac. A brig has arrived, a prize to capt. Stafford. Dr. Gual leaves this for Washington, on public business. Aury is still here, but his conduct has been such as to make him more detested than ever.

MADAME LAVALETTE AND LADY NILHISDALE.

The liberation of Lavalette from prison by the ingenuity of his wife, has been generally supposed the only circumstance of the kind known in history. Without attempting to injure the fame which Madame Lavalette has acquired by her generous heroism, we offer the following translation from a work printed in Paris in 1763.

"After the unsuccessful attempt of James II. to regain the throne of England, the English lords who had supported his claim were condemned to perish on the scaffold; they were executed on the 16th of March, 1716. Lord Nilhisdale was condemned to the same punishment, but was saved by the ingenious tenderness of his wife. Permission had been given for the wives of the condemned to visit them on the evening previous to their execution, in order to bid them adieu. Lady Nilhisdale entered the tower, leaning upon two female servants, with a handkerchief before her eyes, and in an attitude of despair. When she was in the prison, she persuaded her husband, who was nearly of the same size, to change clothes with her, and to go out in the same manner in which she had entered; she informed him that her carriage would conduct him to the banks of the Thames, where a boat was waiting to put him on board a vessel ready to sail for France. The stratagem was successfully executed. Lord Nilhisdale departed, and at three o'clock the following morning arrived at Calais. On disembarking, he sprang ashore, crying, "Heaven be praised, I am safe!" This transport discovered him, but he was no longer in the power of his enemies. A minister was sent to the tower in the morning, to prepare the prisoner for death, when he was not a little surprised to find a woman instead of a man. The news immediately spread. The Lieutenant of the tower applied to the Court for directions respecting Lady Nilhisdale, and received orders to set her at liberty. She refused to go out until she was supplied with the dress of her own sex. She soon after joined her husband in France.

Masonic Magazine.

The editors of the Quarterly Review employ the following resplendently beautiful metaphor to illustrate the nature of the power which the English hold in India:

Fed Repub.

"England launched on the scene of India, seems to resemble one of her own vessels traversing the mighty sea that washes that continent. The billows are bright, the skies cloudless, and all ocean appears to crouch beneath the meteor flag with willing submission. But while a superficial observer feels only the contagion of the general delight and gaiety. the reflections of a deeper spirit are grave even to seriousness. The apparent loveliness and insignificance of the proud vessel amidst such a world of waters--the immeasurable expanse around the unsounded secrets of the abyss below; the quivering sensibility of the boundless element to influences uncontroulable by man, its vast power magnified by imagination to immensity; the very repose and quiet of such mysterious strength, and, not the least. the recollection that beneath this smiling surface lie ingulphed the remains of navies which once displayed their banners as gallantly & as prosperously as ourselves—such considerations as these, excite a sentiment in a high degree solemn, profound and affecting.

ALGIERS, Sept. 16.

For more than a month past a fermentation had been remarked to prevail among the military. Rumours of an alarming nature with respect to the person of Omar Pacha were circulated. Complete tranquility seemed, however, in intervals, to succeed to transitory disorders, and Omar Pacha, tho' told that a plot was hatching against him, refused to credit this information.

On the third of the month, early in the morning, 600 Turkish soldiers marched tumultuously towards the Palace of the Regency. The Dey was there surrounded by all his Ministers except the Grand Vekilardgi, who was at his post in the Marine Department. The Dey immediately put his guards under arms, and sent an order to the Vekilardgi to assemble some troops and come to his assistance. This order arrived when there was no time to execute it. The Palace guard of 50 men was too weak to resist the insurgents, who accordingly passed the first gates without any difficulty. In vain did the Ministers and a great number of their own officers present themselves, to ask what were the matters of which they had to complain, and to promise them satisfaction. Their answer was, that they would not have Omar Pacha for their chief. The Dey ordered that they should be allowed to enter, upon which the most furious among them, rushed into the interior of the Palace, not without fears of ambuscade. Omar, tranquily awaited their approach, in the hope that he should be able to appease them. They refused, however to listen to him. The Prince at last drew his sabre, and endeavoured to defend himself, but overpowered by numbers, he was dragged out of his palace, into the Court-yard, where the mutineers strangled him.

At the same time other Turkish soldiers spread themselves through the town in great numbers.—They proclaimed, Ali-Hodja Dey and carried him in triumph to the Palace of the Regency, which he entered a few moments after the death of his predecessor.

Hastings, (Eng.) Aug. 28.

A singular character. John Hudson, by trade a boat builder, has attracted great notice by secluding himself and living entirely in a cave, which he has cut out of the West Rock, in imitation of Robinson Crusoe. He has been crossed in the tender passion, by a fair damsel, Jane Phillips of this place. He refuses all intercourse, and subsists chiefly on vegetables. He is perfectly harmless, and will occasionally discourse with his visitors, who are very numerous, upon religious subjects. Some of the wandering Egyptians, of whom there are many in the environs, have however relieved him from the cares of his bed, by stealing that and all the furniture from his cave.

The New-Orleans Gazette, of November 27, contains a biographical sketch of the late governor W. C. C. Claiborne, who died at New-Orleans, on the 23d of Nov. and a description of the funeral, which was attended by a great concourse of citizens.

The city council of New-Orleans had resolved to wear mourning for the space of eight days, and to erect a monument, at the expence of the city, in token of their respect.

ALBANY Dec. 16.

Among the indictments found last week by the grand jury, was one against a woman as a common scold! She was bound over to the next term to take her trial. The punishment for this offence, under the common law, we understand is three duckings, by the hands of the sheriff. An eminent counsellor has offered to clear the prisoner, by satisfying the jury that she is not a common scold. This case, at all events, holds out a serious admonition to Zantippes.

A SINGULAR FACT.—A vessel arrived at Charleston the 10th ult. with five hundred barrels of flour from the Havanna

At Birmingham, Liverpool, Sheffield, Nottingham, Glasgow and other mercantile towns, scarcely a manufacturer, it is said, is unemployed. At Manchester, there is not a bale of goods unsold. The orders for fire arms, supposed for South America, are beyond all precedent.

A good hint to all civil officers, and particularly the police-officers and watchmen in our cities—from Malcom's History of Persia.

From the year 1757 until the period of his death in 1779, Carim Khan reigned, with great reputation, over the whole of Persia, with the exception of two provinces.

Carim one day was on the point of retiring from his judgment seat, harrassed and fatigued with a long attendance, when a man rushed forward in apparent distraction, calling out in a loud voice for justice.—"Who are you?" said Carim. "I am a merchant," replied the man, "and have been robbed and plundered by thieves of all I possess."—"What were you about," said the prince, when you were robbed?"—"I was asleep," answered the man.—"And why did you sleep?" exclaimed Carim, in a peevish and impatient tone—"Because," said the undaunted Persian, "I made a mistake, and thought you were awake."---The irritation of the royal judge vanished in an instant. Turning to his Visier, he bade him pay the amount of the man's losses, from the treasury. "We must," he added, "try to recover this money from the robbers."

Diversions of the Holland-Girls.—A writer in the European Magazine, in his account of the customs and manners in modern Holland, says, "Every female in the country can skate. Thirty persons at a time holding hands often dart by you on the ice with the quickness of lightning.—Others sit in a sledge which is pushed along the ice by a skater. Besides these, there are vessels fifteen feet long, their bottoms covered with broad plates of iron; their course is accelerated by the assistance of masts and sails. The velocity of their progress is certainly inconceivable to a stranger, being not less than twelve mile an hour."

New Product from Potatoes.

An apothecary in Amiens, has just obtained a new and very lucrative product from potatoes, in burning the stalks and leaves of the plant to extract the potash, which it contains in abundance. This method consists in cutting the plant, just when the flower begins to wither, at which time the stalk is in full vigor. He cuts them five inches from the ground, with a very sharp instrument. The stumps left. soon push forth new shoots, which suffice to bring the roots to maturity. The plants cut down are left upon the field eight days to dry them properly.—They are then burnt as the manufacturers of soda burn the kali, in a hole five feet in diameter and two feet deep, washing the ashes and evaporating the ley. By this process two thousand five hundred pounds weight of salt is obtained per acre.--The author of this process calculates, that an acre of potatoes, deducting the expences of cultivation, will produce potatoes to the value of 225 francs; and in salt, deducting the expence of manufacturing 816 francs: in all 1041 francs.

Dublin E. Post.

[Any vegetable fuel will produce ashes and pot ashes, though in different proportions.]

CANALS.

A late European paper mentions that the Tavistock Canal, forming a communication between the town of Tavistock and the river Tamar, was opened on the 24th of June. It was commenced in 1802. and has cost about 70,000l. The Duke of Bedford who is the proprietor of one eighth of the concern, has very liberally contributed to its support, by giving to the Company the whole of the land through which the canal is cut. Though its level is about 280 feet above that of the Tamar, it runs for a mile and three quarters in a tunnel cut under Morwall Down at the depth of 450 feet from the summit of the hill.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1818.

The bill to increase the annuities or pensions of old, infirm and disabled officers and soldiers of the revolution, has passed the House of Representatives of this state.

Important.—We learn from a correct source, says the New York Gazette, that all governmental proceedings relative to the Floridas, are, for the present suspended—in consequence, it is believed, of orders received by the Spanish minister from his government.

Appointments by the Governor.

Joseph B. Norbury, Esq prothonotary of the court of common pleas of the city and county of Philadelphia.

John Conard, Esq. (re-appointed) clerk of the supreme court for the eastern district.

Simon Snyder, jr. Esq. (reappointed prothonotary and Register and recorder, for the county of Union.

Alexander Ogle, jr. Esq prothonotary and register and recorder, for the county of Somerset.

The Swatara Bank, located at Middletown, in Dauphin county has been removed to the seat of government, Harrisburg.

Singular presentment.—A Grand Jury in North Carolina has presented John Winslow, Esq. for retracting his consent to stand as a Candidate for Congress, which they say he had no right to retract, and they will support him notwithstanding.

The number of men in the Army of the U. S. at the close of the late war was 54,000; and the number who died in service or were killed in battle 17,000.

THE INDIANS.

We have seen a letter from Hartford, dated 7th inst. which confirms the intelligence given in the Republican of Monday, of the murder of Lieutenant Scott and the men under his command by the Indians. It appears, more lives were lost than were mentioned in the account—Lieut. Scott, 44 men, 10 women and three children, were killed, making in all 58.—The clothing for the 4th regiment under the guard of Scott was also taken off by the savages.

Savannah Repub.

Marble Statue to Henry.—The House of Delegates, of Virginia, on the 24th ult. adopted a resolution, requesting the Executive to procure a marble statue, in honor of Patrick Henry.

Capt. Chandler arrived at Charleston from Amsterdam is the bearer of Despatches to the Secretary of state, from the Hon. Mr. Eustis, our Minister at the Hague. It was understood that the Negociations of a Commercial Treaty, lately going on at that Court, had been suspended, in order that our Ministers might obtain further instructions from their Government.—Mr. Galatin, one of the negociators, had returned to Paris.

Harrisburgh, Dec. 19.

There was a most ridiculous farce enacted to day in the House of Representatives. Both houses met in convention for the purpose of appointing the committee to try the Governor's Election. The process as directed by law is an extremely tedious and intricate one. The party for the petitioners after witnessing the most scandalous deviation from what appears to be the plain letter and spirit of the constitution and law, protested strongly against this course and withdrew. Consequently when the convention met, no party on either side attended, they then set about raising a party for each side and accordingly appointed Rees Hill for the Governor, and Mr. Breck of the Senate for the petitioners. After which they went through the listing and balloting—a complete mockery—for Mr. Breck had no sort of interest in the selection, and struck not a single one, 'tis said, excepting those who expressed a desire to be off. On the Governor's side, every federalist and old-schoolman was objected to, save one only, namely, Mr Hopkins of the Senate. The nine from the House of Representatives are obscure and unknown—not one of any sort of distinction or talent. I suppose the committee will have a meeting or two, and then become ashamed of it and dissolve.

U. S. Gaz.

A NEWSPAPER AT AMELIA ISLAND.

El Telegrafo de las Floridas.—An attentive correspondent at St. Mary's, forwarded to us by the last mail, the first number of a weekly newspaper, under the above title, printed in Spanish at Amelia Island.—It announces a meeting of the Representatives of the Floridas, under a discharge of artillery, on the 1st inst.—when col. Irwin was elected President of that body, and steps were taken for the complete organization of the new republican government. The paper abounds in editorial remarks upon the future destinies of the republic of Florida, and with sentiments of contempt and detestation for the government of Spain.—Its object is to furnish a record of passing events in that island, with interesting extracts from American and other foreign papers.

From the National Intelligencer, Dec. 25.

We felicitate our fellow citizens that, on this holy and festive day, we can announce the pleasing information of the passage, in the house of representatives, of the bill to redeem a part of the national obligation to the survivors of the revolutionary warriors, who need the sustaining arm of the government for their support.

The bill, as it has finally passed provides that "every commissioned and non-commissioned officer, musician, mariner, marine, and private soldier, who served in the revolutionary war, in any of the regiments raised by authority of Congress or of any of the states, or in the navy of either of the states or of the United States, previous to the treaty of peace with Great Britain, of 3d September, 1783, who are yet citizens of the United States, and are, or who hereafter shall be reduced to indigence, and incapable of procuring subsistence, and who shall have substantiated his incapacity in the manner by the bill directed, shall receive a pension from the United States: if an officer, of twenty dollars per month, during life; if a non-commissioned officer, musician, mariner, marine or private soldier, of eight dollars per month during life, &c." The bill has yet to pass the ordeal of the Senate.

St. Stephens, Nov. 1.

We learn that General Jackson is at Apalachicola and that he has written to General Gaines to hasten his expedition against the Seminoles, of which expedition General Jackson takes the command, and that he intends to chastise these Indians in an exemplary manner, as the Banditti are numerous, and assume a menacing attitude.

ALGERINE FLEET, &c.

Capt. J. Orne, of Salem a passenger in schr. Thetis, arrived at Boston, which left Cadiz October 30, informs that it was confidently asserted there, that the Algerines had captured a French and an English vessel.

He states, that on the 12th of Oct. that city was inundated and partly destroyed by water from the mountains, in a violent storm. Many vessels were driven on shore, and lost—among them an English cutter—but no Americans. Loss estimated at 5 or 600,000 dollars.

WAR WITH THE INDIANS.

We have been favored, says the Baltimore Patriot, with the following extract of a letter from an officer in the army to his father in Baltimore, dated "Fort Scott, December 2.

"I have just been informed that an express will start for Fort Hawkins in twenty minutes, I therefore send you this hasty note.—I marched from Fort Hawkins, on the 15th November and arrived here on the 19th, at night. On the 22d Col. ARBUKLE crossed Flint river with 300 men, for the purpose of destroying an Indian town about 20 miles off. We arrived in the town about 12 o'clock next day—at 3 the Indians attacked us, and after an action of about fifteen minutes, they retreated into a large swamp which nearly surrounded their town. Their loss cannot be ascertained. Ours, one killed, one severely and three slightly wounded.

Lieutenant SCOTT, of the Seventh, had been ordered down the Appalachicola with about forty men, to assist the vessels which were comming up with supplies. Major MUHLENBURG, who commanded the troops on board the vessels ordered Lieutenant SCOTT back, and put on board the clothing of our regiment and several women and children. Yesterday, five of his men came in all wounded. They state, that Lieutenant SCOTT, was attacked by the Indians just below the forks of the river, and the whole party killed except themselves. This is truly lamentable. I expect we shall have some very warm work before many days. The whole Indian force is supposed to be 2800.

An article from Russia reports that the winter in Siberia has been severe, and that the cold continued in some parts of that country till the time at which the cold weather of Autumn begins. The article is from Tobolsk, in lat. 60, a place well known by the residence of De Chappe, the French observer of the transit of Venus. The place noted for the cold was in that part of the province of Tobolsk on the Soswa, in the northern part of the province, and above 40 degrees eastward of the imaginary line which divides Europe from Asia.

GLORY.

Since the close of the war, (says the Albany Gazette) about 56,000,000 of dollars have been paid towards discharging the national debt, and paying of the claims which accrued during the late war. The national debt is now stated at about 99,000,000 of dollars. If we add these two sums together, it gives us 155,000,000 dollars, as the amount of the national debt, at the close of the war. When the war commenced the public debt, amounted to a little more than 37,000,000 dollars. So that, as it is admitted we acquired nothing by the late war but Glory, it follows that the administration has on hand, a stock of real solid, substantial GLORY, to the amount of ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS! Who, then, will dare to say we gained nothing by the war.

Notice.

I WILL give FIFTY dollars reward, and all reasonable charges, to any person who will deliver to me at my house or at the jail in this city, my German redemptioners named JACOB SOUTER, BARBARA his wife, and two Children a boy and a girl. They ranaway on the night of the fifth of July last. Jacob, is a stout made man, about six feet high, could speak very little English. Barbara is of a very low stature, very much deformed by having her back broken when a child and can speak no English.—The boy was about five years old; the girl turned of three. They took with them various articles of cloathing, among which were a new suit of brown cloth, and a new rorum hat. They had three years to serve from the twenty eighth day of January 1817,

It is believed they went to the state of Ohio, or to the Harmony society. They were once taken up at Wheeling but made their escape from jail.
